To who it may concern.

I think it is absolutely ridiculous that atco electric thinks they need more money out of hard working people. There is absolutely no consistency in their billing to start with. I have had owned my current house for 4 years and never changed my usage. Yet my bill keeps fluctuating. My home is about 1100ft² with oil heat as my primary and electric as a secondary. I have seen bills that hit $1200 in one month and when I call to talk to them I get dismissed and asked if I own and Xbox that needs to be turned off.. For a company that constany has short falls in their ability to provide reliable energy, they need to improve their infrastructure before ever asking for more money.
